DETAILED ACTION

1. The Amendment filed on 11/09/2005 has been entered. Claims 1-16 are pending in this Office action.

Response to Arguments

2. Applicant's arguments with respect to claims 1-2, 7 and 16 have been considered but are moot in view of the new ground(s) of rejection.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

3. Claims 1-2, 7, 16 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Shimoji U.S. Patent 6,353,930 B1 in view of Perkins et al. U.S. Patent 5,859,660.

Regarding claims 1 and 16, referring to the flow chart of figures 28 and 29, see also figure 4, in column 52 line 65 via column 54 line 45, Shimoji teaches the entire operation procedure for a data reception apparatus 121 including the reception control unit 126 (e.g. corresponding to the claimed parameter set portion) for setting program parameter as described in column 53 lines 35-65, the TS decoder unit 123 (e.g. corresponding to the claimed signal extraction portion) for extracting the program signal as described in column 53 lines 20-45. In column 53 line 60 via column 54 line 45, the reception control unit 126 performs the content switching processing as disclosed in the application claim.

Shimoji does not disclose the program signal includes a PCR (program clock reference) as claimed in the application claim.

In column 2 line 50 via column 3 line 5, Perkins et al. discusses that FIG. 1B shows the format of an exemplary adaptation field in an MPEG-2 transport packet. The adaptation field may include a 42-bit program clock reference (PCR), which represents the value of the system time clock (STC) for a given program at the time when the PCR bits were inserted into the transport stream. Each program may have a different STC and therefore transport packets carrying elementary streams from different programs will generally have asynchronous PCRs. The PCR information is inserted into a transport packet during an encoding or multiplexing operation and is utilized in transport packet decoding to initialize and maintain the decoder system clock. Synchronization of audio, video and data streams within a given program is provided using the PCR information as well as the PTSs and DTSs, which may be placed in the PES packet header. Sonoda et al. and Perkins et al. teachings are in the same field of endeavor. Because the PCR information is inserted into a transport packet during an encoding or multiplexing operation and is utilized in transport packet decoding to initialize and maintain the decoder system clock, it would have been obvious for one of ordinary skill in the art at the time of the invention that the transport stream, corresponding to the program signal, includes a program clock reference. Motivation is that as discussed by Perkins et al., synchronization of audio, video and data streams within a given program is provided using the PCR information.

Regarding claim 2, as recited in claim 1, also in column 54 lines 4-15, the reception control unit 126 monitors the content change flag every predetermined time to be "0" or "1".

Regarding claim 7, referring to figure 4, the receiver receives digital broadcast signal directly from outside.

Allowable Subject Matter

4. Claims 3-6 and 8-15 are objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.

Conclusion

5. The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure.

Shimoji et al. U.S. Patent 6,986,159 B1 discloses "Method and System For Receiving And Recording Digital Broadcast Programs".
